

Kingfishers Newsletter

1st April - 5th April

This week we have been learning...

Maths:

- * We have been revising place value and the value of tens and ones
- * We have been revisiting addition on a number line

Literacy:

- * We have been focusing on our writing skills this week
- * We have used the BFG to think about writing from someone else's point of view and sent emails from Sophie with a grammar focus on the use of exclamation marks and question marks

Science:

- * We have been studying habitats and looked at a desert habitat in more detail. We wrote reports on camels and other desert animals that have adapted to their habitat

Geography: * We did an in depth study of Beijing, watching tourist guides about the main landmarks of the city. We thought about how Beijing is similar to London and where it is different

Next week we will be learning...

Literacy: we are creating giants with our descriptive language and making WANTED posters for them

Phonics: Revising or, ore, aw and au.
Grammar focus on verbs

Maths: we will continue our revision of addition and look at subtraction on a number line

Science: study of an ocean habitat in depth

Geography: Continuing to compare life in China to Britain
