

Jackdaws News

Welcome back to the most action packed half term yet. Jackdaws will be heading out on two trips. One to the Castle Museum to deepen our learning on Ancient Egypt, the other will be out of this world, as we head to Leicester to learn all about space. We'll also be building up to a rather exciting date in December, that's right, my birthday! So what else will we be up to...

Literacy: We will work on our persuasive skills in writing and also create our very own newspaper, all inspired by The Iron Man. Along the way we will look at how fronted adverbials and speech punctuation can really help progress our literacy skills.

Maths: We move on to the four operations (addition, subtraction, division and multiplication). If you would like to learn more about the steps we take to embed the knowledge required to master this area of maths, please visit our policy sections on our website. Of course, any questions just pop in to see me.

Science: In science we will explore the complex and curious world of food chains, reflecting on the interconnectivity and dependency of myriad organisms for survival. Along the way, we will head out and explore our own habitat and think about the relationships between producers, prey and predators.

A visit from the Fire Brigade

The fire brigade came to The Bawburgh School on Friday and the class had the chance to learn about staying safe on Bonfire Night and other fire safety tips. They also got a chance to use a real-life hose to water the plants and possibly Mrs Sharpe.

We then headed back in to learn about the origins of Bonfire night and build our very own fireworks (don't worry I wasn't allowed to use explosives so used bicarbonate soda instead).

Swimming:

You may have noticed that we are leaving earlier for swimming. We have been able to extend the lessons, meaning that the children get more time in the pool to develop their swimming skills and as a result they have really progressed. Please make sure that your children are in on time as we head off on the coach at just after ten to nine. Thanks.
