World Diabetes Day November is Diabetes Awareness month with World Diabetes Day on November 14th. Some of you may be aware that my son was diagnosed with Type 1 Diabetes in September 2025, a diagnosis that came completely out of the blue with no family history. Diabetes is an autoimmune condition, where the body attacks the insulin producing islet cells in the pancreas, meaning the body is unable to produce insulin and therefore is unable to collect and distribute glucose.

Type 1 diabetes is serious, and if left undiagnosed it can be life threatening. That's why we need more people to know the symptoms of type 1, known as the 4Ts, to avoid a medical emergency at diagnosis and to save lives.

- Toilet – going for a wee more often, especially at night.
- Thirsty – constant thirst and not being able to quench it.
- Tired – being unusually tired and having no energy.
- Thinner – losing weight without trying to or looking thinner than usual.

Type 1 diabetes can affect anyone, at any age (see poster).
